If we don't want the rest of the world to have the horse laugh on us we must make good every word in President Wilson's recent message.

Every time you invest in a twenty-five cent savings stamp you will have the chance to experience the thrill of doing your two-bits for your country and the war.

If there were more tobacco and less rag-chewing this war would be over and the boys out of the trenches by Christmas. As it is it may take six months longer.

MENINGITIS FATAL

News was received here last Friday of the sad death of Master John Gray, the four year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Gray, of Knightstown, Ind. Mrs. Gray before her marriage was Miss Isabel Walker, daughter of Mr. A. K. Walker, of this county. Much sympathy is expressed for the family in the loss of this bright little boy.

WE NEED HIM IN LANCASTER

J. N. Trimble and wife, who have been living at Lancaster for some time, have returned to Somerset, their old home, and will remain here. Mr. Trimble was doing some concrete work at Lancaster, and is said to be one of the best workmen in that class in this section of the country. We welcome these good people, and hope that they will never see cause to leave us again.
—Somerset News.

RECEIVES PROMOTION.

Dr. J. M. Casey who received his commission as a Second Lieutenant, several months ago and was sent immediately to Camp Shelby, Miss., has just been promoted to a First Lieutenant and his friends here are receiving this good news with much gratification. Lieut. Casey is in the Remount Department and we know that his promotion is a deserving one. Several years ago he married Miss Willie Wilkinson of this city, who is now with him at Camp Shelby.

GARRARD BOY LOSES LIFE IN WAR ZONE.

When the news reached here that the Destroyer Jacob Jones had been torpedoed in the war zone and sunken, friends of Heidel Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Sanford of this city, feared for his safety for they knew that he was aboard the ill-fated vessel, having enlisted about three years ago, and was 22 years of age. Later dispatches indicate that he is among those missing, for 66 of the 110 persons aboard have not been accounted for.

The following telegram from Washington City, to Mrs. L. J. Sanford, conveyed the first sad news of the disaster to this city, and made us realize that this terrible war was being brought closer home to us all. The message came last Saturday as follows:

"The bureau regrets to state Jacob Jones torpedoed 8 P. M. Dec. 6th. Thirty six men are known to have been rescued. It is hoped that the name of your son, Charles Heidel Sanford, seaman second class, will appear on the list. Report is hourly expected, and as soon as definite information is received, you will at once be advised."

Nothing has been heard through the department since the above message, although Secretary Daniels still believes that other survivors of the torpedoed destroyer might be found.

Of the 41 persons known to have been saved, Heidel's name does not appear among them.

Beside his mother and father, he has four brothers and two sisters living. The deepest sympathy of the community is extended to the bereaved family in the loss of this patriotic son and the first Garrard county boy to give up his life for his country's cause.

COAL SITUATION ACUTE

The coal situation in Lancaster has become acute and if the farmers of the county and the citizens of the town are not extremely conservative with what they have on hand, we will have a coal famine here in less than a week.

Fuel Administrator H. C. Kauffman is doing everything in his power to relieve the situation and is holding the dealers down to a very small margin of profit; and to make the matters worse, many of the dealers that have been handling coal in this city for a number of years have boycotted down on their jobs and are making practically no effort to secure coal. Only one firm in town has any coal this morning, and that only a few bushels of slack. This turn is making every effort in their power to relieve the situation and are handling the coal at virtually no profit to them and after today will limit all sales to 15 bushels to a home. The farmers who can burn wood had better begin using it and in that way the homes in town, where no wood can be secured, may be supplied.

That we are on the eve of a coal famine, there can be no doubt.

CHRISTMAS CAMPAIGN

LAUNCHED FOR 2,600 NEW MEMBERS FOR RED CROSS.

H. V. BASTIN ACCEPTS CHAIRMANSHIP.
Drive To Begin Next Monday.

A Nation-wide Christmas membership drive has been planned by the Red Cross War Council. The drive is to begin on December 17th and continue unceasingly until Christmas Eve.

"Make it a Red Cross Christmas" is to be the recruiting slogan. Everyone taking out a membership in the Red Cross drive will be known as a "Christmas member". The effort will practically be limited to securing annual members, paying annual dues of one dollar.

Mr. Henley V. Bastin, of this city has accepted the Chairmanship of this campaign and has established his headquarters in the room adjoining Curreys grocery, which room has been kindly donated by Mr. H. C. Hamilton. No better selection for a chairman could have been made than Mr. Bastin, who at a great sacrifice will devote his entire time to this work for the next ten days. He should, and we believe he will have the hearty co-operation of every present member of the Red Cross and with such co-operation he will go "over the top" with the 2,600 new members that Garrard county is asked to furnish.

A luncheon has been arranged for tomorrow at the City Club rooms and invitations have been sent out to various persons through out the county to attend this luncheon, at which time an organization will be effected for the drive which will begin next Monday. Arrangements are being perfected for a large Red Cross thermometer to be erected in the public park, well illuminated, showing every evening the number of new members recorded and the number lacking to reach the desired goal.

In this bloody war the Red Cross is the only Good Samaritan. In proportion to the suffering on the battle scarred fields it has renewed its zeal and its activity and from the 17th to the 24th inclusive, a nation wide drive will be made for new members to assist in this work of humanitarianism.

Garrard County is asked to contribute 2600 new members and it is hoped to enlist the interest of every person in this cause that lies so close to the heart of the people.

Every member of the Red Cross, new and old, is to receive a service flag. Where the entire household is enlisted a red star is placed in the center of the flag and where there are children white stars surround the flag.

From 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock on Christmas Eve this flag with a lighted candle is to be placed in the window of the home enlisted in the cause. On this occasion, that will forever be a memorable one, may there not be a darkened window in our little city or in our entire county!

May the steady glow that goes out from every home shine across the great waters infusing cheer and comfort to every mother's son "somewhere" on the other side as it reflects the warmth and the Xmas spirit of the great heart of America; and as this flag, the emblem of the Lord of Hosts, is lifted high above the roar and the din of battle, may it stand as did the brazen serpent in the wilderness, for the healing of the nations.

Right now this Country is calling for men of stout hearts and sound bodies. It needs them to keep Old Glory triumphant and unsullied in the air.

The exigency now confronting us emphasizes, as nothing else could do, the importance of good health, both as an individual and national asset.

Buying lumber at this time is the best investment you ever made. There are several very good reasons.

Unusual conditions make it possible to get twice as much lumber as you did in 1914 for the same amount of farm produce.

Investment in lumber and the placing of new buildings on your property will increase its value out of all proportion to the lumber cost.

Lumber—the world's greatest building material—has advanced much less than any other material used for building.

Double value can be had without sacrificing quality—and the lumber of today is better than ever before.

Nothing is more important than conservation at this time, and all grain, stock and implements must be properly sheltered.

Opportunity—such as you have NOW—may never come again. After the war, lumber prices may be higher.

We are giving you this information in the right spirit—with a desire to see you buy when you can get more for your farm produce.

BUILD NOW.

A FATHER'S PRAYER.

I sometimes wonder when I read the sorrow in his face
If I shall wear the look of care when time has marched apace?
My little boy is five years old and his is twenty-one,
My little boy is home with me; his boy to war has gone.
And I can laugh and dance with life, and I can gayly jest,
But heavy is the heart today that beats within his breast.
Time was his boy was five years old; time was he smiled as I,
I wonder what awaits for me when youth has journeyed by?
Last night I sat at home and watched my little boy at play,
And all the time I thought of him whose boy had gone away.
And in the boy that I possessed I prayed in silence then
That God would quickly bring him back his little boy again.

BUY A THRIFT STAMP NOW.

Buy a thrift stamp NOW.
The sale began Monday. You can buy a thrift stamp from the nearest post office or at the bank.
In a few days many stores will be selling them.

Each quarter invested in a stamp will be a quarter saved and a quarter loaned to your Uncle Sam to finance the war. He hopes thus to raise two billion dollars.
Thus your two bits will actually do two bits.
Here is how to save thrift stamps and draw interest on them:
When you buy your first thrift stamp you get a card with spaces for pasting 16 stamps.
When the card is filled you will have $4. worth of stamps.
These stamps, however, will not draw interest for you until you have exchanged them for a war-savings stamp.
You must keep in mind the difference between a thrift stamp and a war-savings stamp.
To exchange your 16 thrift stamps for a war-savings stamp, you go to the Post-office, or wherever else thrift stamps and war-savings stamps are sold: There you turn in your card with the 16 thrift stamps, and for 12 cents extra you will be given one war-savings stamp, for which Uncle Sam will give you $5. on Jan. 1, 1923. After Feb. 1, 1918, one cent must be added each month to the 12 cents, to cover accrued interest.
In other words, you will receive 88 cents interest on your investment if you invest now.
But if you do not care to keep the war savings stamp that long, you can sell it back to Uncle Sam at any time for what you paid for it, plus 4 per cent compound interest that has accumulated on it.

Immediately upon exchange your first thrift card for a war-savings certificate, you can buy another 25-cent thrift stamp, and start filling up another card.
And each time you have filled up a thrift card you go back to the Post-office and exchange it for a war-savings stamp. These you paste into the war-savings certificate that you will get with your first $4.12. When you have filled up the spaces in the war-savings certificate you will have stamps that will be worth $100 on January 1st, 1923.
As stated previously, you needn't wait till January 1, 1923, to sell these stamps back to Uncle Sam. He will redeem them at any time for what you paid for them, plus interest.
If you have the money at hand, you can buy a war-savings stamp for $4.12 at once, without going to the trouble of saving stamps for it on the thrift card.
Or you can buy a certificate completely filled for $82.40, and put it away for five years, when it will be worth $100. Or you can sell it at any time at interest.
A campaign for the sale of thrift stamps among children is to be started in the public schools. Thus every child will have a stake in the war.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES LANCASTER PEOPLE.

"My wife suffered for years with stomach trouble which did not yield to any treatment. She took a dose of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy last Saturday with wonderful results. I have practiced medicine for 20 years and have never seen anything like it before. I have recommended Mayr's Wonderful Remedy to several that I know need this treatment.

It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract, and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

POTATO CROP SOLD FOR SOLDIERS' FUND

Actor Robert Mantell Plays Roll of Auctioneer in Lively Scene in Louisville.

The Christmas fund for buying gifts for the boys in khaki at Camp Zachary Taylor was increased by one gift of $1,730.75 last week, when the potato crop raised at the famous Churchill Downs race track in Louisville was sold at auction.

The sale was held on the courthouse steps in the presence of a large and enthusiastic gathering of prominent citizens. Mr. Robert Mantell, the distinguished tragedian, acted as auctioneer.

The first sack of potatoes offered by Mr. Mantell brought $500, which means better than $1. a potato. This bid was made by the directors of the New Louisville Jockey Club, whose generosity was responsible for the gift of the race track crop to the Courier-Journal Camp Taylor Christmas fund.

The second sack offered brought $100 that bid being made by Louis Seelbach, of the Seelbach Hotel Company. The third sack brought $50, being bid in by R. B. Jones, manager of the Hotel Henry Watterson.

The potato crop was given a royal welcome in the city of Louisville—a welcome befitting the kindly lineage of the spuds. An escort of mounted police, a military brass band from the 48th Infantry regulars and throngs of cheering citizens escorted the tubers on their stately procession to the place of auction.

FIRST RED CROSS CHRISTMAS.

Something has happened. A simple and thrilling thing that brings something of real greatness to our lives, humble as they may be.

It is the observance of our first Red Cross Christmas. One cannot have even the thought of its appropriateness and its significance in this world of anguish without having touched the highest thoughts of all the world—that which was given on the birthday we are celebrating—"Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people"; and that which was expressed in the Red Cross Treaty made by nations, which established that in warfare the sick and wounded of the enemy should be sacred to the Red Cross.

This is a Christmas when we cannot see our new young soldiers, strong and straight of back, without visioning those others whom war has made helpless. We cannot see the happiness of our children without thinking of those little ones in Europe who have starved to death. Perhaps we cannot duck our children's Christmas trees without remembering that He in whose honor they are was a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief."

In the Red Cross campaign for 10,000,000 new members during the week preceding Christmas there is scope for all our tenderness, all our richest imaginings, all our new-born power of simplicity of heart, all our possibilities of service.

The Red Cross Chapters have asked all members of the American Red Cross to take part in a simple ceremony on Christmas Eve—the placing of a lighted candle in the window shining through a Red Cross service flag on the window pane. This flag is a piece of white transparent paper, blue-bordered, with the sign of the Red Cross, five inches square in the center, and smaller crosses to be added to each of the household who is a member of the Red Cross. It is an expression of service in this unexampled time—a symbol so instinctive that the Red Cross will glow from the windows of our homes over the length and breadth of the land, sending out the Christmas message to the world, and telling not only the passer-by, but our own hearts, that just as our boys and men are finding new strength in their new sacrifices, so may we thru our new service.

There is no secret in the notably long life of the Columbus wagon. It is the result of the methods employed in construction. The axles and the spokes of the wheels are hickory; the hounds, bolsters and sandboards are oak, and the bottom of the box is straight grained flawless pine. These are just a few examples of the care which is taken to make this wagon as reliable as possible. The result is that the Columbus wagon is unbeatable in reliability and endurance. Their First Meeting

By PAULINE D. EDWARDS

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Where did you and your husband first meet?" asked Mrs. Jones of Mrs. Whittemore.

"Oh, heavens! Don't ask me," Mrs. Jones looked at Mrs. Whittemore, puzzled.

"I've been trying to forget my meeting with Paul for ten years, and now you, my dearest friend, come and rasp me by asking for the story. For it is a story, and if I tell it I must go over it all or I will appear even a greater fool than I am."

"I would excuse you, but I am cursed with an excess of curiosity; come, proceed."

"You know my father's place is near Warrenton, where there is the state asylum for the insane, and our house was not very far from it."

"Good gracious, you didn't marry a lunatic?"

"Worse. If I had, I should have had some respect for myself; as it is, I am the biggest coward in the world. Father is a civil engineer, you know, and he used to be kept in the city sometimes late at night with the young men who made his drawings and calculations for him. But I'm getting ahead of my story."

"One day there was a call at the telephone and I answered it. It was a notification from the asylum that a dangerous inmate had escaped. They were warning everyone in the neighborhood to look out for him. He had on a gray overcoat with a velvet collar, striped trousers and an Alpine hat."

"I had scarcely taken the message when the doorbell rang. I was the only person in the house at the time, so I went to the door. There was the lunatic. I recognized him by the hat and overcoat."

"These were enough; I didn't look at his trousers. I was about to slam the door in his face when I beheld myself that the way to subdue a crazy man was to look him square in the eye and pretend to think he was perfectly sane."

"I have come up from the city," he began, when, knowing that he had come from the asylum, I stopped him. Should I try to get rid of him? I feared to do so lest I should anger him and he would kill me. I concluded to dissemble. I would let him come in and contrive, if possible, to lock him up, and telephone the asylum keepers to send for him, so I said:

"Oh, yes, we're expecting you. Come right in. Would you like any refreshments?"

"Oh, no," he replied. "I'll wait till your dinner hour."

"Good gracious! He was intending to stay to dinner."

"Nevertheless, in order to placate him, after I had asked him to take a seat in the living room, I brought out a plate of cookies and a decanter of sherry, and setting them on the table invited him to help himself. I might have known that he would expect me to sit by him and share the refreshments with him, but I hadn't thought of that. When he asked me to do so I dared not refuse. I sat as far from him as I could get on the other side of the table and munched a cookie. I was scared nearly to death and the lunatic evidently noticed that something was the matter with me."

"He pulled his watch out of his pocket and asked me what time the up-train arrived. I believed that he was intending to get out of the place on it, and was nervous, fearing that any minute the keepers from the asylum might come and capture him. I told him I didn't know about the train; and I began to form a plan for locking him up. 'I am sorry to have to ask you to excuse me,' I said, 'but I must get a letter off by the evening mail. Meanwhile, you will go up stairs to father's den where he keeps his professional library, you may smoke if you choose.'"

"I should very much like to look over the books, but I don't smoke," he replied."

"I showed him to father's den, he went in and I locked the door on him. Then I went downstairs and telephoned the asylum that I had the escaped lunatic under lock and key, and wished they would send for him immediately. They seemed much surprised that I could have secured one who had nearly succeeded in killing his keeper, but said they would come over at once."

"The keeper came and at the same time father arrived from the city."

"Where is he?" asked the keeper."

"I led him up to the den, father following wonderingly. When I unlocked the door the inmate was immersed in a book on engineering."

"Thunder and guns!" exclaimed father. "Do you call him a lunatic? It's Ernest Brooks, one of my assistants. I told him to come up with me to help me do some work tonight. I suppose he took the train that pulled out just ahead of mine."

"I stood for a moment, the color of a penny, then ran to my room and locked myself in."

"How did you come to marry him after that?"

"Well, he made light of the matter and I suppose I was grateful on my part for his not treating me like a fool or a coward."

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number Four

Military Training Necessary for Safety and Defense.

"Say, Uncle Dan," said Billie, "I'm sure and I have been looking up about war in the encyclopedia at school. We found that in the war between Germany and France in 1870-71, Germany lost in killed and wounded 28,000 soldiers while France lost about six times as many, and besides that, she lost every battle. We asked Professor Slocum why this was. He said that the German army was highly trained and ably commanded, while the French soldiers were poorly trained; and that their war department was honey-combed with jealousy and politics; that the officers were not much good, and that's why France lost the war and so many men. What do you think about it, Uncle Dan?"

"Well," said Uncle Dan, "Professor Slocum is right. Inefficiency France lost that war, together with two of her best provinces—Alsace and Lorraine—and had to pay a billion dollars indemnity money. France today learned her lesson by that and experience, so she put in universal military training, and as a result, her soldiers now know how to fight and how to protect themselves. They are losing less men in the war than the Germans. France also put politics out of her war department, so that expert authority, instead of bureaucratic stupidity, now directs the army. The result is, France has one of the best and most efficient armies ever assembled, and this shows that thorough training and good leadership means in warfare. This saved France in this crisis, as well as the liberties of the world."

"As war is now conducted, there is no place for an untrained man. A body of 10,000 well trained soldiers properly handled could defeat five times their number of raw recruits and do it every time with comparatively small loss to themselves. Proper training alone will reduce the death and casualty rate one-third of what it otherwise would be, and right here is an unanswerable argument for universal military training."

"Our government has no moral right to force her men into war service without properly training them for it. To do so is simply murder, hence the frantic effort that is now being made to give her soldiers some training before they are sent to the front. If we are to win this war, it will take trained men to do it, and it will take trained men to win any other war that may come upon us in the future. If we must fight, let us fight to win and not to lose."

"That's the stuff," said Billie. Continuing, Uncle Dan said: "Our government has expended about $300,000,000 to put up cantonments and training stations in order to train the men called by the selective draft. When these men are trained the training stations should be immediately filled with younger men, say those in their nineteenth year, to receive six months of intensive military training along the lines of the Chamberlain bill. This will be of immeasurable benefit to them individually. It will do them more good than any other two years of their whole life; it will make them strong, manly, self-reliant, quick to see and quick to act; it will equip them for a successful life. In short, it will rebuild American manhood and will also give the government a body of trained men to draw from in case it is necessary to defend our flag and country. We must settle this question of universal military training immediately, otherwise those training camps may be demolished. The adoption of universal military training will be no notice to the world that from then on we will be prepared to defend ourselves promptly and efficiently, and this will do more to keep us out of war in the future than anything else we could do."

"Do you think, brother," said Mrs. Graham, "that there will ever be another war?"

"I have no doubt about it," said Uncle Dan. "So long as men are selfish, so long as nations are ambitious to acquire territory, so long as population presses and demands more room, so long as there remains a scramble for world trade—so long wars will be. When the time comes that we reach the high plane for which we hope and dream, when all will recognize the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, then, and then only, will wars cease. When that day comes doors will need no locks, banks will need no vaults to protect their treasures, but that day is a long way off."

"The only safe and sane plan is to be able to defend ourselves at all times. Therefore, every citizen should insist that senators and congressmen shall provide for universal military training, so that never again shall the country be caught so completely unready as this war found us. Fortunately, in this case, our enemy has been held back, so we have had a few months in which to prepare. This advantage probably will never come again. It is however our salvation today."

"Because she was ready, Switzerland is an island of peace in a sea of war. Safety first is good, but safety always is better. In strength there is safety. You never saw a tin can tied to the tail of a bulldog. There is a reason."

G. T. BALLARD, JR. SHERIFF

ETIQUETTE OF THE FLAG.

The flag is with us constantly now, but not all, perhaps not many, understand the etiquette of its use. No discourtesy is probably meant by those who remain covered while the flag is passing in procession, but a clear knowledge of the conventional behavior expected is likely to be wanting. Hence an expression of gratitude is earned by J. Stewart Gibson for his comprehensive compilation of facts and rules relating to the proper use of and respect for our flag, gleaned, as he says in the New York Sun, "from every authentic source." Here they are:

"Anniversaries on which the flag should be displayed at full staff; January 3, Battle of Princeton; February 12, Lincoln's birthday; February 22, Washington's birthday; April 19, Battle of Lexington; May 30, Memorial day; June 14, Flag day; June 17, Battle of Banker Hill; July 4, Independence day; September 6, Lafayette's birthday; October 12, Columbus day; October 19, surrender at Yorktown; November 25, Evacuation day; December 26, Battle of Trenton; and other legal holidays or special occasions.

"To placing the flag at half staff it should first be hoisted to the top of the staff and then lowered to position, and preliminary to lowering from half staff it should be raised again to the top. On Memorial day the flag should fly at half staff from noon to sunset.

"During time of war, it is proper to display the flag continuously; but it is conducive to the spirit of economy and to greater respect for the flag to lower it at night and as far as possible protect it from inclement weather.

"The flag should not be hoisted before sunrise nor allowed to remain up after sunset.

"The flag should be displayed from a staff or pole whenever possible. When it is hung on a wall or fastened to the side of a building or platform, the union (the blue field of stars) should be at the upper left hand corner when the stripes are horizontal, and at the upper right hand corner when the stripes are vertical, as seen by the spectator.

"The flag should never be allowed to touch the ground while being hoisted or lowered. Its folds should float freely and should be cleaned at once whenever soiled.

"The flag should be saluted by all present while being hoisted or lowered and when it is passing on parade or in review. The spectator should rise if sitting; halt if walking; and standing at attention, salute with the right hand in all cases, except that a man in civilian dress and covered should uncover and hold the head dress opposite the left shoulder with the right hand.

"When the flag is carried in parade with any other flag it should have the place of honor at the right. If a number of flags are carried the flag should either precede the others or be carried in the center above the others on a higher staff.

Nothing should ever be placed upon or against the flag.

"Neither the flag nor a picture of it should be used for any advertising purposes whatsoever; nor as toys, fans, parasols, paper napkins, sofa cushions; nor as a cover for a table, desk or box; nor in any other degrading manner.

"It is unlawful to trample upon, mutilate, or otherwise treat the flag with insult or contempt, or to attach to it any inscription or object whatsoever.

"To salute with the hand: Raise the right hand smartly until the tip of the forefinger touches the lower part of the head-dress (or forehead, if the head is uncovered) above the right eye, thumb and fingers extended and joined, palm to the left, forearm inclined at about forty-five degrees, hand and wrist straight; at the same time look toward the flag or the person saluted. To complete the salute; Drop the arm smartly by the side."

To memorize these rules should be a part of the patriotic duty of all of us, especially those who have lived long in this country, and have a duty to perform in the matter of example before our newly patriated citizens. But the Chicago Tribune finds that—

"There are four classes of men who do not salute the flag; the careless, the forgetful, the ignorant, and the German sympathizers. For the ignorant, it may be repeated that it is proper to remove the hat and place it over the heart as the colors go by. For the careless and forgetful, it may be suggested that their anxiety not only serves as a cover for the German sympathizers, but is likely to arouse suspicion as to their own loyalty."

Meat or Shucks.

Sometimes I think the best part of cracking buttermilk is cracking them. What are we going to get? Meat or shucks? Never mind if there be nothing more than an empty hole once in a while! The next time will be all right. Anyhow, we have gained a bit of muscle in the arm that swung the hammer. Makes us stronger for cracking the harder nut tomorrow.—Vincent in Farm Life

WAR NEWS OF THE WEEK.

The T-utons are still trying to force the passage that lead to the Italian plains, but the holding line is still intact, even the heaviest enemy masses thrown against this line have not broken the chain of the strong resistance. A terrific struggle is in progress.

The Bolshevik Government, it is said, is preparing to repudiate all foreign loans. The cessation of hostilities has practically ceased for a ten days armistice. It is also said that Emperor Nicholas has made his escape or has been removed by these leaders under pretense of fear of his being lynched.

Perhaps the greatest tragedy of the times resulted when the Norwegian ship, Imo, ran into the French ship, Mont Blanc, the harbor at Halifax resulting in tons of explosives being let loose and thousands of lives lost. Fires followed and then extreme cold and snow have hindered the work of rescue. Generous aid has been sent from all over the country but the condition is so extreme that it will be many days before relief will be felt by the survivors of the catastrophe.

The American destroyer, the Jacob Jones, the largest and newest submarine chaser, was torpedoed four hundred miles off the coast and only about forty three were rescued. Among the list of the enlisted men is found the name "Charlie" Harold Sanford, seaman; mother Barbara Eda Sanford, 325 Lexington Ave., Lancaster, Ky. As this name is not among the rescued it is greatly feared that he is among the lost. Ident. Commander Worth Bagley was among the saved. He is a brother-in-law of Secretary Daniels.

The Holy City of Jerusalem falls into the hands of the British and the Jews may come into their own again after 1200 years of waiting. Gen. Allenby carried out his plans so that the numerous sacred places in the city were not endangered. This breaks the backbone of the German rule in the East. Ever since the Kaiser came to his throne he has been infatuated with a desire of a drive thru the East and an attempt to dominate from Hamburg to Bagdad. He has made visits to Turkey and played the part of a Royal Carpet Bagger. The capture of Jerusalem is of great military importance for now the British are in a position to advance across the Jordan to the Hedjaz Railroad and sever all Turkish connection with Arabia. Turkey is so strongly dominated by Germany that she is not in a position to make a separate peace.

Reasons!

Why you should use Cardui, the woman's tonic, for your troubles, have been shown in thousands of letters from actual users of this medicine, who speak from personal experience. If the results obtained by other women for so many years have been so uniformly good, why not give Cardui a trial?
